FOREWORD

This entry in the Morris Swett Library Special Bibliography Series presents periodical coverage on the 2 April - 15 June 1982 Falkland (Malvinas) Islands War. The 74-Day War (79 if the British capture of Argentine scientists on Thule Island, June 20, is included) was fought over the question of sovereignty. The short hot war coupled centuries old amphibious tactics with modern technology. It proved that even though invading ships are still vulnerable to airpower they are not the overwhelming consideration when a superior-trained highly-mobile combined strike force is involved.

This number is arranged in parts. Part One lists periodicals cited by an arbitrarily-devised acronym. Part Two contains the citation. Part Three is a tentative chronology. Part Four lists British possessions located in the South Atlantic. Inclusion of an item, or omission, neither implies USAFAS indorsement or sanction of the compiler's point-of-view. Finally, the potential reader should check leading U.S. newspapers, i.e., "Christian Science Monitor," "New York Times," and "Washington Post" articles for day-to-day coverage during the period.
